

MEMBERSHIP AND PARTICIPATION

As a member of the TSCP, your organisation gains immediate ability to demonstrate trustworthiness to governments, project partner companies and supply chains based on a common language, processes and protocols. By playing an active role in defining the operating rules and mechanisms for federated trust environments, your organisation gains immense control over its own destiny.

Membership in the TSCP offers the opportunity to build on the collective expertise in a broad range of policy and regulatory questions, influence specifications under which your organisation will operate and contribute to the success of partnerships on a global scale.

- Commercial organisations gain a seat at the table with customers and prospects where the rules of the working relationship are defined
- Government agencies gain considerable ability to ensure data security as information passes from their network to the supply chain

The TSCP offers a two-tiered membership to meet the needs of organisations seeking to gain a distinct advantage by ensuring that the mechanisms used with customers and partners tomorrow take into account nuances of their policies and infrastructure.

All prospective members are voted on by the Governance Board.
